

Alayna holds a Doctor of Health Science and a Master of Public Health from Eastern Virginia Medical School, and a Bachelor of Science in Nuclear Medicine Technology from Old Dominion University. With over 14 years in healthcare, she currently serves as Market Director of Imaging Services for Bon Secours Hampton Roads. Her career spans frontline care to executive leadership, with a focus on clinical operations and community health advocacy. Alayna is an active board member of the Healthcare Administrators of Tidewater (ACHE) and NAHSE Virginia Chapter. She is passionate about improving access, quality of care, and health equity in underserved communities.