

Seeking Endometrial Cancer Survivors!!

We are excited to announce a new study called PROMOTE (Patient-Reported Outcomes Measurement Opportunities Through Equity). PROMOTE asks endometrial cancer survivors their opinion on their quality of life and any symptoms from endometrial cancer and/or its treatment.

Historically, this knowledge around a patient's experience of their cancer and its treatment was gathered via a survey. However, this survey was developed in populations that were not very diverse.

We hope PROMOTE can potentially improve upon a clinically meaningful survey that impacts how doctors treat patients and reflects the symptoms and concerns identified as most important by diverse women who have had endometrial cancer treatment within the past 3 years.

This study will involve 1 or 2 telephone or virtual interviews and an online survey.

Participants can earn up to $250 for their time and participation.

If you:

- ✓ Are over 18 years in age
- ✓ Were diagnosed with endometrial cancer in the past 3 years
